

Tony Bowdery
Regional Manager – North America, Heatric

Heat Exchangers for Thermal Energy Storage: Challenges and Mitigation

Biography

Tony Bowdery is responsible for Heatric's technical sales activity in North America, and he has 26 years of experience working with compact heat exchangers. Prior to joining Heatric, he was a heat exchanger design engineer and worked on many cryogenic & industrial gas projects. He graduated from Loughborough University in the UK with a Bachelor's degree in Chemical Engineering.